

Tenure-track positions (Assistant/Associate Professor) in Strategy at FGV EAESP (São Paulo, Brazil).

The Sao Paulo School of Business Administration at Getulio Vargas Foundation (FGV-EAESP) invites applications for a full-time permanent position (tenure track) at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor in Strategy and related fields to work at the Department of Management and Human Resources at its Sao Paulo campus.

FGV EAESP is committed to diversity and inclusion and invites applications from all backgrounds to apply for the positions. The applicants should hold a Ph.D. in a relevant area (or equivalent qualifications/experience) and the ability to teach and communicate in English. The successful candidate will be capable of developing and delivering teaching programs ensuring high-quality teaching and learning experience. They will present a well-articulated research agenda (academic research or applied research) and a track record of high-quality publications. Excellent communication skills and willingness to engage with staff and students from all backgrounds are also mandatory.

For the first position, successful applicants will be expected to make a solid contribution to research. They will also be capable of teaching undergraduate and graduate courses, supervising research students, and contribute to FGV EAESP's reputation. The candidate should also show their capacity to coordinate undergraduate and postgraduate programs. The potential to publish excellent quality research outputs is necessary. The school welcomes applicants focused on quantitative or qualitative approaches with a strong background in research design and research methods skills is expected. Involvement in studies with international partners is recommended.

For the second position, successful applicants will be expected to make a substantial contribution to applied research. The successful candidate will have a professional background and evidence engagement with local and international firms and other organizations. The candidate must demonstrate the ability to deliver quality teaching using digital and innovative methods at all levels. The ideal candidate will do research that influences academics and practitioners. We are particularly interested in candidates with teaching experience for C-level executives

You will be joining a vibrant research community in one of the best business schools in Latina America and a leading research-intensive institution. In 2004, the Sao Paulo School of Business Administration became the first Brazilian business school to get triple accreditation from AACSB, EFMD, and AMB. FGV EAESP has around 2200 undergraduate students, 1600 graduate students, 250 faculty members, and 100 staff members. Besides, FGV-EAESP has partnerships with more than 100 leading schools around the world.

With over 70 years of tradition, Getulio Vargas Foundation is a nonprofit organization focused on excellence and international projection. Its mission is to stimulate Brazil's socio-economic development. In 2016, the Getulio Vargas Foundation was appointed one of the best think tanks in the world, according to Global Go To Think Tanks by Pennsylvania University.

Please send applications to adm@fgv.br and include:

- A cover letter - no longer than two pages - explaining why the candidate possesses the main requirements mentioned above.
- A detailed resume (or online CVLattes, for Brazilian candidates).
- Up to three research papers.
- Evidence of teaching

The approved candidates will be invited to start teaching at a convenient date for both parties.

Salary and benefits are competitive with peer institutions and commensurate with qualifications and experience. Confidential inquiries can be made to FGV-EAESP ADM's Chair, Professor Maria José Tonelli, who will also be available for informal queries (maria.jose.tonelli@fgv.br).

FGV EAESP is located in the São Paulo downtown. For more details about the school, visit the school's website at www.fgv.br/eaesp/en.
